

I've had the privilege of working alongside Mary Shannon Lindstrom and watching her lead our community through some seriously difficult challenges that the school district has faced in recent years. As a School Board member and Board Chair, she didn't seek the spotlight or take the easy path. She showed up, did the work, asked tough questions, listened carefully, and made thoughtful decisions when it mattered most.

What impresses me most about Mary Shannon is that she is genuinely independent. She isn't interested in political theater or partisan talking points. She's interested in solving problems. In a time when it feels like politics is designed to divide us, Shannon has a remarkable ability to bring people together, focus on the facts, and keep the conversation centered on what actually matters to families and communities.

Scarborough needs a strong voice in Augusta. We need someone who understands our community, knows how government works, and can hit the ground running on day one. Mary Shannon's background in public policy, combined with her years of local leadership, gives her that rare combination of vision and practical experience. She understands that while national politics may dominate the news, it is state and local decisions that shape our schools, housing, taxes, public services, and quality of life every single day.

I've watched Mary Shannon do the hard work of leadership. She takes the time to understand issues deeply, values process, respects differing viewpoints, and never loses sight of the people affected by the decisions being made. That kind of leadership is increasingly rare.

Simply put, Mary Shannon is one of the most capable, thoughtful, and prepared candidates I've seen step forward for public office. At a time when many people are frustrated with politics, she reminds us what public service is supposed to look like: serious, collaborative, and focused on results.

Scarborough and Maine would be well served by Mary Shannon Lindstrom. I am proud to support her and hope others will join me in doing the same.
